

My fourth week

The first class of this week was a little difficult for me because the students didn't want to pay attention, but when the class was developing the students were motivated talking about the food, healthy food and so on, in that moment the environment of the class changed totally and I felt that I wasn't wasting my time.

The second class of this week was marvelous because the topic (drugs) was very attractive for the students, they wanted to participate all the time and talk about some friends' experiences and the class was good because I also had the opportunity to explain them the consequences of the drugs and how it can be damage for people, I really liked this class.
