JOURNAL 6th week

7th Grade classroom number 8

In this week they were working by doing the respective activity they were not misbehaving as they usually do with others teachers, also I used some listening activities in order to engage students who misbehave sometime, some songs were played while they were working, it helped to control them because they were waiting for those songs. They now that they have to be in the classroom, they are used to go outside as soon as the bell sound, nevertheless they are understanding that I called the roll twice, at the beginning and at the end.

In this week they were acting different in this behavior, the classroom was a mess in the first class, it is after the break, so I told them to organize and clean the classroom. At the beginning they did not do that, however I was stood in front of them I look straight them I repeat the same order slowly but seriously it was in order to remind them that I am the teacher, they clean the classroom also, organized the lines and be ready for classes.
