

REFLEXION: 8TH WEEK OF CLASSES

In this week I tried strategy of playing videos, I played to the students a video with English subtitle, I was happy because I made students focused on the activity and they were paying attention to it, I could notice that the visual aid such videos call the their attention even when they don't know the language , and it is surprising how they make an effort to participate in my classes, the problem is, when it come to the activities where they have to produce or to read, they seem not to be interested, so it is difficult for me to develop reading skills with them because they don't want to do the activities and what they pretend to do is that the teacher give them everything.

On the other hand, I have notice a lot of progress with the classroom management, what I do is, I tried to keep them busy and that way they don't get deconcentrated and start talking and standing up, another important thing is that I always try to prize them with candies or grades and that way they can participate in the lesson, but one thing I haven't achieve jet is to make that the students use more English in the classroom and stop translating everything that I say , even when I try to use English as much as I can, and using simple vocabulary and appropriate tone of voice.
