

Reflection

This week was hard I planned many activities for the students, at the first time students take long time for doing an activity, now most of them finish quickly and I have to be prepare with activities, I could see this week that they do not like reading activities. I gave to them a short reading activity and they did not like, they misbehaved, I think that it was in order to avoid the activity, I had to change and read aloud and they paid attention. I could noticed that they behave well when I speak in English, they like to listen me, and this is one of the strategies that I used in order to control the behavior of the students. (My body language helps me when I speaking in order to students can get the idea).

Reflection

Well, this week was regarding for me students did a great job most of the students achieve the goal for the second unit. I did not think that they would achieve the goal in short time, but they did it. This week I take some time to reinforce the topic, for including short readings and read with them. They behave well, they like my classes and I feel comfortable working with them. They like to speak but they need to practice more, I gave them short readings, I read with them and I asked some questions according to the reading and they participated a lot. They like English but they do not feel sure and in some cases they feel embarrassed when they speak in English because of the pronunciation and they prefer to be quiet. But I am trying to motivated with many speaking activities with posters, drawings , etc..
