

Week from 12-15 of April

In this week the classes were good, but something that frustrated was their behavior, and it was not just with me but with my tutor, they do not respect, but in some kind of activities they work and pay more attention than in other moments, I have tried to enhance those situations, something that might affect this is the number of the student and the way they are seated, for that reason, as I can seat them in U way I change some of them that misbehave a lot and the class get better with that. Taking into account their likes I have prepared the next activities, unfortunately they are the kind of students that prefer doing activities in their books than moving around or something like that, but I think that I can change that, or at least I hope so. good

Week from 19-22 of April

In this week the classes were good, but something that frustrated me last week was their behavior but on this one their behavior was better I think that they know that they need to behave in a good way and take advantage of my work as teacher. This week I prepared really good activities, even, my tutor congratulated me because he thought it was very good and very organized, I hope to keep being able to prepare more classes like these ones and improve their behavior day by day. Something that I have to stand out is the commitment of the foreign girl who is working with them and with me, I think that they are more motivated when she is supporting me in the classroom, but some of them keep giving up with the acquisition of the second language, I hope being able to change their minds.

Motivating classes make them to behave!

Week from 26-29 of April

In this week thanks God we didn't lost any day of class, and some things that frustrated me from last week in this one were better, their behavior is improving and it is thanks to the motivating activities I have brought to the classroom, so thank you teacher, you were right. I have to keep working on the discipline during the classes, at the moment of participating they should go one by one taking into account they are young and the classroom is not the biggest one and it could make them misbehave a lot. Something that I have to stand out is the commitment of the co-teacher who is working with them and now with me, I think that they are more motivated when she is in the classroom even that they don't understand everything she say they try harder to do it.
